

CREATING A COMMUNITY OF LEARNERS

Creating community is important in all courses. When students feel like they belong to a community of learners, they feel engaged and are more likely to retain the course's content and skills. The focus of this session is to present, reflect on and strategize the opportunities and challenges on how to create community and foster a sense of belonging for all students. The facilitators will present strategies that they have used to create community in face-to-face and online environments.
